Progressive DisDURPance Vol.2

Website DPRP (Dutch Progressive Rock Page), 06/1999

And yes .. I like it ! Very good follow up to the first DURP sampler ! DURP, keep up the good work ! 7 out of 10.

Website "Polish Art-Rock Net: Planet Caladan", 05/1999

This amazing compilation makes a good impression since it is not an offer of a record company but a collection of works from the bands from all around the world. We should praise this idea of DURP.

Magazine "HM Pirate", 07/1999

With these 70 minutes you can fully satisfy your needs if you're looking for something different and original based on the strange symbiosis of melodic harmony and metal robustness.

Magazine "Edge of time", 09/1999

Progrgers will find their own favorites, as the compilation offers something for each taste. Support it !

Magazine "Heavy oder Was", 04/1999

Buying this professional CD is a must for fans of this genre, especially at that fair price.

Magazine "Jester's News", 06/1999

With "Progressive DisDURPance Vol.2" the DURP managed to top "Vol.1" by far. Great layout, better mastering and again a very good selection of prog bands without a label deal. Progfans : get it !

Webzine "Progressive World.", 9/1999

There's quite a bit to explore out there. The DURP comp is well worth picking up.

Magazine "Empire" & Jesterday's Website 06/1999

Again the DURP offers unknown bands of the progrock / progmetal genre the possibility to introduce their music to the public. All songs are worth listening and offer a wide variety so that each of you will find a diamond here. And in addition: the booklet is full of useful information ! Get it !

Website "Tales from progressive oceans", 05/1999

Vol. 2 looks and sounds totally professional and again the bands are able to proof how creative the underground can be. There aren't many other possibilities to get that value for that price !

Website "Scream Magazine", 05/1999

11 bands, 70 minutes [...] on a very high level. If you're bored by the music market and you're looking for new things then this is your CD. 100%

Website "Progressor", 09/1999

Excellent compilation - a real stage for Prog-novices toward the more profound Progressive Rock.

Website "Moshpit", 06/1999

Everyone who loves this style of music should take into account that this compilation offers raw diamonds that might appear in the shelves in a few years. At least that's what the bands would deserve ! Buy it and support this project !

Website "Alternate View", 04/1999

11 tracks from "unknown" European prog bands [...] and packaged to the highest quality with excellent artwork.

Magazine "Progressive Newsletter", 06/1999

Progressive DisDURPance Vol.2 is an interesting mixture of unknown prog bands, now featuring a great artwork and an international selection.

Webzine "Soundbase", 05/1999

Visit the DURP and check out this compilation !

Progressive DisDURPance Vol.1

Webzine "Alternate View", Feb 1999

This CD is an impressive collection of unsigned German artists. Several of the bands are worthy of hunting down and pursuing further. A serious sampler which deserves a wider exposure.

Magazine "Rock Hard", Jan 1999

"Progressive DisDURPance Vol. 1" offers eight high quality bands covering everything from ProgRock to Progmetal. If I think of the fair price I have to point out that this compilation is a "must buy" for every progger who is interested in the underground.

Magazine "Heavy oder Was", Jun 1998

Buying this compilation for that nice price is absolutely worth it. Please support this idealism.

Magazine "Empire" #46

Creating this compilation series has been a great idea. Labels like Musea, Angular and all the others should check this CD.

Magazine "Metal Invader", Dec 1998

There are many prog-maniacs out there ... but some of them really don't seem to know where to stop their enthusiasm. This compilation is produced by Markus Weis who is maintaining the prog-website DURP. The bands on the CD are not popular, but their quality ranges from "worth buying" to "great" you simply must contact Markus.

Magazine "Edge of Time", Dec 1998

This is a compilation of new prog rock/metal acts. (...) Support it.

WWW.DURP.COM

"Breakout", Nov 1998

"Disturbance in the WWW - Die Ultimative ReviewPage" : The DURP is an upcoming online fanzine in german and english language with detailed reviews of progressive rock and progressive metal releases.

In addition there are lots of links and bands are encouraged to send in their promotional material and prices for the contest. The main attraction is the underground compilation series "Progressive DisDURPance Vol". The first edition contains 73 minutes of unsigned progrock/progmetal bands and can be ordered at the DURP website.
